Congratulations...
Best Luck in
the year to come.
I hope our friendship
will ever remain firm.
Love Midge

To Gayle, ever a great lover of NAVY boys.
(Like me!) Good luck next year
Senior, I hope!

Dear Gayle,
They'd better all watch out for those terrific flag-twirlers coming up next year. (he! ha!)
Best of luck in everything you do.

Love, Cecelia

To Gayle the best of everything in the future. I shall miss you.

CORNERSTONE

1960

SWARTHMORE HIGH SCHOOL

SWARTHMORE, PENNSYLVANIA

The following manuscripts were recently unearthed near the remains of an ancient school building. Although the Cornerstone marked "Swarthmore High School 1960," in which they were found, showed no outward signs of value, its contents were of obvious importance. The pages which follow have been compiled to show not only the character of the Class of 1960, but also that of each of its members. Despite the age-cracked pages, the material is being published in its original form.

PART I THEIR TEACHERS -DEDICATION-

These manuscripts reveal that each member of the faculty made a distinct contribution to the class. The teachers were not merely formal instructors, but rather pleasant individuals in whom the students could confide. As the teachers and students became better acquainted, there seemed to develop an intangible quality which brought about, among the students, the realization that there can be a joy in learning, and the desire to further their knowledge. Because the faculty as a whole was probably the most outstanding single factor in the education of these students, we feel they are worthy of recognition.

To the teachers of the Class of 1960, therefore, this book is dedicated . . .

MR. MOREY

"I don't know anyone who has spent more time and effort and has had greater affection for this school than Mr. Morey." These words of Mr. Bush give an inkling as to the type of role Mr. Morey has played here for the past thirty years. To Swarthmore, he has been more than just a Supervising Principal.

Until a few years ago, each Christmas season saw jolly old Saint Nick bring life to an assembly program as he distributed choice presents to certain lucky individuals. Without a doubt, the students enjoyed this custom as much as Mr. Morey did.

However, his role in the school has also involved jobs of a more serious nature. Over the years, he has proved to be an able and astute disciplinarian. Miss Hancock recalls one incident which occurred when she was teaching an art class in the auditorium. Three boys apparently discovered that through snake-like maneuvers they could escape. They were indeed surprised, however, when as punishment Mr. Morey firmly demanded that they repeat the performance--this time under the table in the office. Never again have any boys tried to crawl out of an art class!

Mr. Morey's great versatility was further exemplified one day when he, on the spur of the moment, conducted one of Miss Armstrong's English classes. He undoubtedly added a new spice to the ordinarily flavorless spelling words which constituted that particular day's lesson.

Probably no one has spent more devoted hours at the school than Mr. Morey. His associates never ceased to wonder at his endless vigor displayed continually around the school. When not occupied talking into his dictaphone or signing a letter, he could always be seen rushing down the halls checking thermostats or adjusting shades. In addition, despite his many other demands, he has always found time to send birthday cards to each member of the faculty.

In honor of Mr. Morey's twenty-fifth year here, the faculty staged a long-to-be-remembered party. They asked every teacher he had ever hired to write him a note for the occasion. This event, plus the gala affair planned one year as a surprise birthday celebration show clearly the appreciation everyone feels for his excellent work here.

To Mr. Morey, Swarthmore has been the scene of many hours of hard work, given with a willing heart and an able hand. For his outstanding contribution as Supervising Principal Mr. Morey will long be remembered.

To the Class of 1960:

THE ADMINISTRATION

With the receipt of this letter you will have concluded, happily I trust, twelve years of public education. In this you have shared in a basic American heritage.

Your class, having received a number of National Merit Scholarship Certificates of Merit and Commendation, can well be proud of its significant scholastic achievement. It can also be proud of its participation and leadership in a variety of school activities, and its loyal support of our school standards and our honor system.

I should hope, therefore, that whatever your plans may be for the future, you may take with you from Swarthmore High School, a wholesome respect for academic achievement, a willingness to participate in and accept leadership in community activities, and, finally, an enduring loyalty to courtesy, truth, and integrity in all that you say and do.

Few may long remember what you say; many may never forget what you do.

William K. Bush.

Mrs. Wisdom, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Driehaus.

Mrs. Clark

The members of the Administration are greatly enjoying their new quarters, now complete with a Public Address Room, separate pine-paneled offices for Mr. Bush and Mr. Morey, and a fire-proof vault. Mrs. Clark has her own office next door to the College and Career Room. No more little cubby holes in Room 13 for the Administration! No more tucked-away places for Mr. Morey! Now the offices, as well as the school, show everyone the efficiency of our Administration.

PART II

WHAT THEY DID

SPORTS...

FOOTBALL

"It wasn't because they didn't try." With names like "Hoppin' Hal", "Foozooski", and "Old Man" even the most unenlightened knows the subject is football. Combine the blocking of the blind line with the running of the disabled backs. Toss in the stump-handed end and the vicious tackling of the spindly-legged backer-uppers. Add the unequalled spirit of the players and coaches, and the long-suffering mothers. Let stand for three months of long, sweaty, dedicated hours and you have football--Swarthmore High--1959.

HOCKEY

"Come on, gang. Let's go!" "Ali-ki-nik, ki-nik, ki-nak; skin 'em a rik, skin 'em a rak. . ." That unbeatable combination of Gowing-Zimmerman-Dee-Allen (from the chairline) pep talks led the red bloomer girls to eight victories with twenty-nine goals. Instead of wearing the girls out, all that exercise stimulated their appetites (pity Mrs. Narbeth's refrigerator) and increased their desire to go it again.

Atkins, A. Van Blerkom, Mr. Reese (coach). THIRD ROW: F. Braund, D. Jackson, W. Buckley, T. Innis, M. Anthony, G. Gallagher.

"Well, we have one consolation--we can't do any worse the second half." In spite of October practices and late 5:30 practices, there was such a large turnout for the team that the "Reese's Raiders" were formed for scrimmage purposes. The smell of liniment often pervaded the locker room after the punishing blocking and pushing drills. Speaking of liniment, gallons were needed after the Clifton game. The team unanimously decided to wear helmets, shoulder pads, and suspenders when Clifton returned the visit. Although the Varsity was the shortest in quite a while, the boys possessed a better-than-average shooting ability and proved to be the best Swarthmore team in the last three years.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

"Who's going to win today? WE ARE!" echoed as the red tunics spilled out onto the floor. Swarthmore was right in style with a sharp-dressing coach and original Pennsylvania-Dutch print sashes made by Captain Driehaus. The monotony of drills and more drills was often relieved by Lee's jokes, "Gabby Abby", and sprints around the gym by the short, but aggressive, guards. Li'l Herbie watched the wins and losses with the eagerness or despair of his fellow players.

KNEELING: S. Driehaus. FIRST ROW: N. Lee, B. Bennett, C. Zimmerman, S. Campbell, S. Gowing. SECOND ROW: B. Bovard, Miss Boughner (coach), S. Wright, A. Warnes, K. Welsh, C. Brodhead, L. de Prophetis. FIRST ROW: K. Brandt, J. Carroll, B. Walker, S. Sheppard, B. Jacksteit. SECOND ROW: C. McKinnell, J. Edwards, K. Lewis, W. Price, S. Sievers, H. Honnold, J. Patterson, B. Walmsley, J. Price. THIRD ROW: J. Anderson, J. Hunt, C. Holden, C. Walber, S. Tompkins, S. Kamp, L. Lewis, P. Gargiulo, F. Hoeningwald, P. Sheppard, L. Jones, M. Franck, D. Tompkins, E. Peterson, Mr. Holm, director. FOURTH ROW: E. Edney, N. Webster, J. Plafker, G. Heckman, B. Wrege, R. Weiss, R. Borei, P. Beardsley.

"A-one, A-two, A-three"
Dashing from dinner on Monday and Wednesday evenings to a room left in shambles by afternoon classes, each band member eventually learned to locate a chair, a stand, and some music. Many fall evenings one could see the band marching up and down the tennis courts and the field. "To the rear, march!" Finally bedecked in its long-awaited uniforms and clean (?) white bucks, the band produced many varied half-time performances and the annual Spring Concert.

"One-two-ready-play!"
After tuning up in a leisurely way, the orchestra warms up by playing "Ase's Death". Those who have forgotten their yellow books have to play by ear. At the end of rehearsals Mr. Holm often sighs, "We're just warming up when we have to stop."

"Who wants to sing tenor?"
With three different directors this year, Chorus has had to adapt to many styles of directing and interpreting. The paucity of boys, especially tenors, limited the size of the group. Small though it was, Chorus gave fine concerts at Thanksgiving, Christmas and in the spring.

KNEELING: B. Tibbetts, C. Zimmerman, B. Bird. FIRST ROW: S. Gowing, M. Tiller, C. Curtis, S. Stephens. SECOND ROW: C. Brodhead, A. Greer, L. Howe, G. Piersol, J. Hawkins.

*Dear Gayle, Sorry this is in pencil, but maybe you can go over it in ink.
This year's been your hope next year is too. Good luck next year & have fun this summer.
English exam wasn't so bad was it?*

STUDENT GOVERNMENT...

CABINET

"Well, the cafeteria closes at one o'clock so we'll have to hurry this meeting." This year, Cabinet saw verbal battles over standards, fund-raising, pennants, hats, dues, and the treasurer's arithmetic. "Is there a motion for adjournment?"

"Who's the next victim?" Thus, continued the parade of gum-chewers past Standards Board. The problem this year was to make the students respect and participate in the standards. The Great Question concerned the division of jurisdiction between students and faculty for offenses such as gum-chewing and classroom disturbance. With the new building and Cabinet's continued leadership, standards functioned well.

SEATED: A. Greer, secretary, R. Jarratt, president. STANDING: C. Smith, vice-president, B. Biddle, treasurer.

STANDARDS BOARD

SEATED: C. Webster, K. Welsh, G. Gilmour, N. Lee, S. Williams. STANDING: R. Hoge, C. Turner.

HONORS BOARD

FROM LEFT: B. Larson, J. Coles, C. Zimmerman, J. Kennedy, D. Smith, P. Paul, B. Edwards, J. Pinkston.

"Through this Constitution we hope to promote honesty in our class. . ." In tenth grade we voted to follow the honor system, wrote a constitution, and elected an Honors Board to uphold the Constitution. The Board has made a tremendous effort to promote interest and responsibility for the system among all the members of the Senior Class. We hope that through the seniors' enthusiasm the incoming classes will realize the importance and the necessity of the Honor System, and will continue the tradition.

CABINET COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

SEATED: J. Coles, A. Essl, J. Bradbury, S. Gowing, S. Plowman. STANDING: J. Kennedy, N. Braund, J. Pinkston, S. Bruce, B. McClarin, B. Swartz, C. Webster, E. Tolles.

BLACKFRIARS

"Pick up your cues!" "Airy, Fairy, living in another world." "Pause, pause, pause." The year started off with a hectic mess. October initiation at Anne Essl's shocked the initiates who were served such delicacies as chocolate-covered grasshoppers and caterpillars. Later, the club revived the tradition of giving a one-act play. "The Trysting Place," directed by Mrs. Mathews, chalked up another success. During Mrs. Mathews's absence, Mrs. Yeaw competently stepped in to direct the Senior Play, "The Curious Savage". Her professional experience and talent contributed greatly to the success of the play.

YEARBOOK

"But then it will bleed into the gutter!" With Buddha Smith perched on the window sill, knitting, and Editor Barb smashed between three tables, a shriek resounds from Barbi McClarin's direction: "What do you do when a Scutt lands on your toe?" Off in one corner, Joan and Jim are trying desperately to arrange pictures in the senior section. "If we have to cut off somebody's feet, we'll cut off somebody's feet, that's all," decides Miss Armstrong as she arrives on the scene. Meanwhile, Caroline and Larmie are busily rushing copy down the hall to Typist Janet. Buddha, having deperched himself, starts his daily profit-making schemes. His latest picture, with which he threatens to black-mail a certain eleventh-grade English teacher, induces her to snatch and promptly sit upon the picture, saying, "I'm as hard as the Rock of Gibraltar." "But I still have the negative," gloats Craig. "Please, Craig, I don't enlarge well," is her protest. Two hours later, with Tolles and Walker lost under the table, the staff straggles home wondering whether or not Barbara's suitcase will reach its destination.

SEATED: J. Pinkston,
B. Scutt, B. Greim.
STANDING: E. Tolles,
C. Smith. ABSENT: S.
Seltzer, A. Sved.

"This could be it!" echoed throughout the auditorium as Mr. Robert Johnson opened the final (?) Hi-Q contest of the year. Would Swarthmore break the tie for first place with Upper Darby?

The team members will never forget Craig's "Falconian History", John's nervous water glass, and Anne's "Kangaroo for state animal." Their many nights of frantic cramming and many anxious hours of contesting brought honor and distinction to Swarthmore.

WE WON!

For the Garnet and the White let's fight!
 Real gone pep rallies and way out beatnik cheers characterized the spirited cheerleading squad this year. The pep rallies featured an informative locker-room scene and a performance by the senior boys wearing Junior High garnet sweaters. A J.V. squad was formed for extra pepping purposes. Cartwheels and splits, although bruise-producing, accentuated the vivacity of the cheerleaders.

KNEELING: S. Bruce, C. Webster. FIRST ROW: S. Middleton, K. Ward, L. Kurtzhalz, A. Grogan, S. Stephens, J. Coles, A. Hewes. SECOND ROW: D. Maule, K. Hansen, M. O'Brien, J. Taylor, B. Coles, C. Price, S. Clark, D. Biddle, B. McKeag.

Gayle To navy on weekends, making all of us green with envy. Best of luck to the unique Gayle.
Nancy Dayley

Lots of luck
Andy Gay

Dear Gayle, you're one person, who, by sheer persistence, almost convinced me that the U.S.
navy is as good, or better, than the Royal Navy! Keep on cheering for navy, and best of luck in work & play.

Your English girl-friend
(without an accent)
Christine

Lots of luck in the future.
See you down the academy

Jon Ferlster

Dear Gayle
May the Hedges of our Friendship Never rust.
Good Luck in the Future in all you may do.
Take care of that Navy.
